CIT 3210 Introduction to Networking

This course presents a broad overview of computer networking from LANs to WANs to the Internet. Basic networking functions, features, and protocols are discussed. Students will participate in the installation and set up of Microsoft server networks. The various aspects of network administration are presented. Students completing this course are partially prepared to take the CompTIA Net+ certification exams and may also take the second portion of the CompTIA A+ (Operating Systems) certification exam. Prerequisite: CIT 2010 ($55 Lab Fee and Certification Exam Fee Required).

P. 76-78

Add the following course descriptions:

CCJ 2000 Intelligence Community

The purpose of this course is to provide the student with an understanding of the structure of the U.S. intelligence community, focusing on individual agencies and their specific jurisdictions. Intelligence collection, analysis and dissemination will be discussed to understand how intelligence analysis is unique and to what extent the September 11 terrorist attacks were an analytical failure. This course provides an introduction to the scope, concepts, methods and theory of the intelligence analytical process.

CCJ 2010 Law Enforcement Intelligence

The purpose of this course is to define and illustrate law enforcement intelligence with respect to state, local, and tribal law enforcement agencies. Turning information into intelligence by using information technology, software, networking and all-source information will provide students with a better understanding of intelligence requirements produced by the FBI and threats posted to different critical structures. New intelligence products from the Department of Homeland Security, counterterrorism initiatives and programs and the National Intelligence sharing plan will be examined.

CCJ 2020 Intelligence and the Law

The various components of intelligence will be discussed and how oversight and laws are needed to protect national security and civil liberties as well as the future role of intelligence given the creation of the Department of Homeland Security and a Director of National Intelligence. Foreign intelligence services and crime networks will be addressed to examine judicial issues dealing with intelligence matters such as the Patriot Act and to what extent the ongoing war against terrorism blurs the line between law enforcement and intelligence operations.

CCJ 4710 Strategic Intelligence

This course will define and critique the concepts of strategic intelligence by examining the U.S. intelligence community and exploring various means of intelligence analysis and collection, including both technical and human sources. The transition of the intelligence community from the cold war era to the present war on terrorism will be examined. Students will develop an understanding of intelligence gathering and assessment concerning information on covert and overt collection of intelligence, counterintelligence, and threats presented by today's era of globalization. Current intelligence gaps and needs of the 21st Century will be examined.

P. 80

Add to course description for ENG 1101: Students must pass this course with a grade of C or better or repeat it.

P. 90-91

Delete INM 4001, INM 4101, INM 4301, PAM 4001, PAM 4101, and PAM 4201.

P. 97-98

Add the following course descriptions:

PSY 3010 Educational Psychology

This course focuses on variables that affect learning in the educational setting. Among the topics to be covered are cognition, motivation, individual differences, development, classroom evaluation and classroom control. Prerequisite: PSY 2012 or permission of the Program Chair.

PSY 4000 Personality Theories

This course will examine a number of theories of personality, from Sigmund Freud's psychoanalysis to Viktor Frankl's logotherapy. It will include biographies; basic terms and concepts; and therapies associated with specific personality theories. Prerequisite: PSY 2012 or permission of the Program Chair.

PSY 4400 Tests and Measures

This course focuses on the appraisal of psychological tests. Topics include history of assessment methods, principles of test construction and standardization, strategies for use of assessment measures, interpretation of assessment measures, and ethics as it relates to testing. Prerequisite: STA3014 or permission of the Program Chair.

Please check with your Program Chair for changes in faculty and staff as well as changes to course titles and prerequisites. New catalogs incorporating these changes are available online and will be available in hard copy for the Fall 2006 Term.
